Infotec announces technology partnership with London Stock Exchange

25 April 2005

Infotec SA, a Swiss company based in Geneva, today announces it has signed an agreement to supply Proquote, the trading and market data subsidiary of the London Stock Exchange, with technology infrastructure services for its new global market data product, Proquote International.

"We are thrilled to contribute relevant technology and expertise to assist the LSE in this important drive to expand Proquote's business," said Robert Jeanbart, Chief Executive Officer of Infotec. "Together we have been able to bring a high-quality product rapidly to market, and will continue to cooperate on its further development."

The Proquote International product is available for viewing on Proquote's stand at the TradeTech Conference and Exhibition in Paris, 26-29 April 2005.
